COMSAT earth station goes into full operation

Commercial operation 24 hours a day for seven days a week of the Jamesberg earth station, or the big new Comsat station in Cachagua, was scheduled to go into full operation last Monday.

This is a month ahead of the original schedule, according to John Scroggs, administrator of the local Comsat station.

The local station is assuming the load from throughout the Pacific of the Brewster Flat, Wash. Comsat station, which is being taken out of operation temporarily to improve it mechanically.

Voice and data circuits are now being handled from the Cachagua station, receiving and sending from and to Hawaii, Japan and Australia.

The existing Pacific satellite is being used, although it had been planned to use a new one, Intelsat No. 3, which had problems when shot up recently. However, Scroggs said a new Intelsat satellite No. 3 is slated to be launched in late March or early February.

APOLLO 8

A critical period for the local earth station will be around Christmas time when it is scheduled to handle NASA communication with the Apollo 8 mission around the moon. The station here will play an important part in the communication network between the Orient, Australia, ships at sea and East Coast stations.

The Cachagua station was initiated for transmission during the Olympic games, when it sent 12 different TV programs on to Japan.

Reception on the local station was inaugurated Nov. 9 and 10, to broadcast NBC television of the Hawaii open golf tournament. "It was very successful," Scroggs commented.

The around-the-clock operation now involves a highly-trained staff of 40 people. Four operation teams of four and sometimes five men man its technical operation.

In addition are electronic and facility maintenance personnel, plus administrative and contract-security guards. Most the contractors' personnel have left, although a few, Scroggs said, are still assisting.

AT&T PERSONNEL

In addition are six AT&T Co. personnel, in charge of Frank Birney, who man the station's interface facility and microwave station on the mountain behind, which carries on the signals on the ground.

"The fact that we're phasing out the contractors," Scroggs added, "means considerably less traffic in the area, as we become an operating entity in the community."

Some landscaping is still to be completed, and exterior painting has just been completed, which dresses up the facility.

"We'll be having dedication and an open house about next March," Scroggs added. "We aren't yet really set up to handle visitors, and hope to be by that time."

Children's Home Society hears of need for more adoptions

At the November Monterey Area Council meeting of the Children's Home Society Adoption Agency, Mrs. Helen P. Robinson case work supervisor, told of the need for more adoptive homes.

Because of the insufficient number of approved homes available, 35 applications for the placement of babies had to be rejected this year. However, since January almost 100 babies were placed.

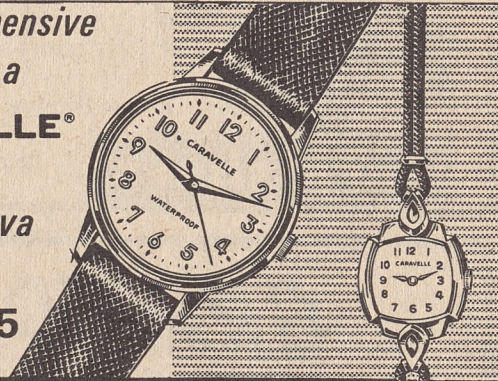

Representing auxiliary councils were: Mesdames Cecil Paul, "Littlebits," Carmel; Gerald Shaw, "Mother Goose," Monterey; Sinclair Wright, "Punch and Judy," Monterey Peninsula; Max Mobley, "Winnie the Pooh," Pacific Grove; Glen Dorey, "Johnny Appleseed," Watsonville, Charles Brunjes, "Sandpiper," Santa Cruz.

A recent activity to raise funds for the benefit of this non-profit organization was a project by "The Peter Rabbits" in Salinas of a haunted house. Under the auspices of "Winnie the Pooh," Walt Disney cartoons will be shown at the Hill Theatre Friday following Thanksgiving.

Anyone interested in further information about the Children's Home Society at 444 Pearl Street, Monterey, may telephone its office at 373-3239, or Mrs. Leonard Cohen, chairman, at 624-5575.

White Oaks annual Xmas party to offer original Gale Peterson children's play

"The Ogre Collector" an original children's play by Gale Peterson, will be featured at this year's White Oak's annual Christmas party. There will also be group singing of Christmas Carols led by White Oak music director Sheila Jo White.

The company will be returning from Chester and Quincey in Plumas County, the last leg of their State wide tour. While playing Sacramento and Placerville they were visited by members of the California Arts Commission, from which they received a grant last year.

The cast of "The Ogre Collector" includes John Prejean as the ogre, Tonny Willis as Gleep, Sieglinde Gierlack as Billie-June, John Logan as Willobee, Tom Rearden as the collector, Mary Wardum as Zuzu and Malia Elliott as Rosebud.

WHITE OAKS THEATRE'S annual Christmas children's show will be Friday Dec. 15 at 2:30. Here is John Prejean as Franklin the Ogre.

ARTIST JOE ATAIDE

Carmel Valley artist Joe Ataide is having a one-man art show in the new Cultural Institute museum in Mexico City.

The exhibit of his paintings was featured during the Olympic games and continues into December.

Ataide is also completing studies for his master's degree at the University of Mexico and will be in Mexico City through January.

The well-known local artist has taught painting at Monterey Peninsula College and has had many shows on the West coast.

Studio Theatre tryouts for 'Yum Yum Tree'

The Studio Theatre of Dolores Street, Carmel, will hold auditions on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. to select a cast for its postponed production of "Under The Yum Yum Tree." The Lawrence Roman comedy is now scheduled to open January 31 for a run of six or seven weekends.

The lead role of Hogan, the unprincipled but ingratiating landlord, calls for a man-of-the-world type in his thirties or forties. The young couple engaged in a platonic experiment in communal living should be between 18 and 25. The cast of four is rounded out by a stylish attractive woman mature enough to play the girl's aunt.

Line study will start at once, but actual rehearsals will not begin until after Christmas. Anyone unable to attend the Sunday auditions may call director Dave Kirk at 624-1661 or 624-2321 to arrange another time.

Monterey Peninsula Choral Society to present Haydn's 'Creation' at Mission

Haydn's "The Creation" will be presented in the Carmel

Mission Basilica as a Christmas treat for the community by the Monterey Peninsula Choral Society Dec. 14 and 15.

Complete performances of the well-known oratorio will be given each night starting at 8 p.m., admission free.

The Choral Society has presented the Bach "Christmas Oratorio" for the past six years, last year at Sunset Center. Back again in the beautiful old mission, where their music is so appropriate, they will be directed by Haymo Taeuber and accompanied by the Monterey County Symphony Chamber Orchestra.

THREE SOLOISTS

Three soloists will be featured: Norma Jean Hodges, soprano; James Schwabacher, tenor, and James Tippey, bass.

Director Taeuber is a former conductor of the Vienna Opera Company and the Vienna Boys' Choir. He has been rehearsing the Choral Society since his arrival in September and presented the Monterey County Symphony in its first concert of the season last month.

which will be the sixth annual photographic invitational show at MPMA.

It will include work by such well-known local photographers as Liliane de Cock and Steve Crouch of Carmel, Richard Garrod and Henry Gilpin of Monterey and Peter McArthur of Carmel Valley, as well as photographers from throughout California.

It is one of the few museum shows where works are for sale and it has been a near "sell-out" in the past.

The photography show will be on display from Dec. 7 - Jan. 4 at the Lincoln Street gallery. Hours are 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 2-5 p.m. Saturday. It is closed on Sunday and will also be closed Dec. 24, 25, 31 and Jan. 1.

Jazz trio concert at MPC Saturday

PIANIST DAN HAERLE

Pianist Dan Haerle, a member of the Monterey Peninsula College music faculty, will be assisted by John Smith, bass, and Jim LePine, drummer, in a jazz trio concert Saturday, Dec. 7, 8:30 p.m. in the MPC music hall.

The concert is open to the public and students without charge.

New this year at the college, Haerle has played in jazz clubs in the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Dallas, Texas, areas. He has also done extensive recording work. For three years he was pianist with the North Texas Lab Band. He has been called upon to "back up" on piano such well-known performers as Doc Severinson, Bud Brisbois and Clark Terry. At Kansas University's Oread Jazz Festival in 1964, he was named "best rhythm instrument player."

At MPC, to which he came after seven years' teaching experience in Texas and the Middle West, Haerle, a classically schooled pianist, teaches theory and piano and directs the jazz ensemble and jazz rehearsal bands which played for a "standing room only" audience in concert Nov. 22 at the college.

Bassist John Smith, who will fly to Monterey from Los Angeles, played with Johnny Mathis, Sy Zentner and other professional bands before joining Stan Kenton.

Drummer LePine is from Chicago, where he played with several studio groups. He now teaches professionally on the Peninsula and works with the Ace Hill Trio.

Music camp at Carmel Highlands? Pros and cons are aired at PlanCom

An application for a use permit for a music camp on the ridge overlooking Carmel Highlands was continued to Jan. 29 after a lengthy hearing before the County Planning Commission last Wednesday.

The permit was sought by Hidden Valley Music Seminars, which met at Robert Louis Stevenson School the past two summers and previously in Southern California, to use a 169 acre site on Mt. Devon.

Dr. Wright has offered to donate 69 acres of his property if the organization will purchase 100.

Peter Meckel, executive dean of the seminars, asked for permission to erect buildings, including a 300-seat auditorium, to house and instruct students under-going intensive musical training in the classics.

The young musicians, he said, would contribute richly to the cultural development, not only of the Peninsula, but of the county and country. He pledged that great care would be exercised in the use of the land.

Mr. Meckel explained that enrollment would be limited to 70 pupils, with a faculty of 10; construction would not be commenced until the total cost of the project had been raised (thus guaranteeing its economic stability); public concerts would not exceed one per month, and in case of fire in the Highlands area, local residents would be able to use the right-of-way and water resources of the facility.

He also pointed out that, being a residential facility, the increase in traffic on Mt. Devon and Corona roads would be less than if 10 or 15 houses were placed on the property.

John McDaniel, chairman of the Carmel Highlands Association Master Plan Advisory Committee, presented a petition signed by 12 of the 16 members "urging denial of a use permit to the Hidden Valley Music Seminars, as the Master Plan forbids this type of development."

Mr. McDaniel, praising the cooperation he had received from the applicant, said he was not against the concept of such a school, and he hoped that it would find a home on the Peninsula. The main points of objection were directed against the suitability of the proposed site, and the adequacy of the access roads. Recapitulating the history of the Master Plan, Mr. McDaniel stated that it was passed by the great majority of the Highlands residents, and was specifically for the establishment of 'single family residential development on one acre minimum lots.'

SITE, ROADS QUESTIONED

G. A. Bauman, an Advisory Committee member, also declared that he had no quarrel with the project, other than that of unsuitable location, and emphasized that the Master Plan, which has the support of all local planning groups, specified that 'all future developments must be served by separate and reserved access roads.'

Paul Lipman, of Carmel Highlands Drive, presented a petition signed by 170 residents of the area 'strongly opposed to the issuance of a permit,' and Judge Harold Jacoby, envisaging "motor cycles, hot rods, and increasing accidents," asked the Commission to "protect us from this encroachment as you have done in the past."

Carmel Highlands Association member Len Klene, rebutting the objections, said that opposition to such projects was predictable, traditional and greatly magnified. John Lewis, representing Dr. Wright, pointed out as the land was due for eventual development, this was a "true opportunity for the use of low density land."

James Miller, Spindrift Rd., agreeing that the Hidden Valley proposals constituted the best possible use of the land, said that the choice was of either Hidden Valley, or a maximum-density residential development. At a recent meeting of the Highlands Association, he said, although a majority of the 46 persons presented voted against the proposal, this represented less than 10% of the Highlands population alone, and thus it was entirely wrong for Mr. McDaniel to assume the role of its spokesman.

PETITION CRITICISED

Another Highlands resident, Mrs. R. Panholzer, challenged the alleged unanimity of the opposition, and criticised strongly the form in which the residents' petition was presented. Stating that she was asked to sign to prevent 'a sub-division up on the ridge, and a four-lane boulevard on Corona Road,' she said that she felt many people signed without knowing the full details.

Mrs. Panholzer added that when the Master Plan was originally drawn up, this kind of development was not envisioned, and, being a 'retreat' for intensive study rather than a day school, Hidden Valley did not fall within the categories forbidden by the Master Plan. "Here would be," she said, "150 acres untouched except by a small cluster of buildings, leaving the rest in its natural state of beauty."

Commissioner Keith Evans suggested dropping the auditorium from the plans and offered the opinion that the overall benefits accruing from the establishment of Hidden Valley far outweighed the objections raised by the Carmel Highlands Association, "who do not have," he said, "a vested right to maintain inadequate roads."

Mecke responded that although the auditorium was an integral part of the project, he would be willing to delete it, rather than incur additional delay and cost of the required engineering surveys regarding the roads.

The hearing was to be continued to Jan. 29 by a vote of 9 to 2, so that a committee composed of Evans, Leon Stutzman and Dr. Edward Marcucci would have time to meet with the Highlands Advisory Committee and the applicants and to study the matter further.

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

of the Oleander Garden Shop

When I visualize the Australian fuchsia (correa magnifica), I see a shrub-type plant, evergreen, hardy, with 3/4" rounded leaves, dark green on top and fuzzy tan beneath. The flowers are chartreuse, in bell shape, blooming in the fall and winter. One day I looked at one and decided to make a small tree out of it. Now it is five months old and has acquired a new, attractive look with its unusual flowers.

POINSETTA TIME

This is the time of year for the poinsettia—"Flor de Noche Buena" (Flower of the Blessed Night). If you have saved your poinsettia of last Christmas, planted in a larger pot, and allowed to grow during the spring and summer outside, then it is time to bring it indoors. Keep it near a sunny window.

The poinsettia, being a "short day" plant, needs long nights in order to bloom, so leave it in a room which is not lit at night. If that is not possible, cover it at dusk with a carton box. Keep the plant moist, to the touch of your finger; if the indoor air is dry, place the pot on a tray filled with pebbles, with water added. This will create enough humidity for the plant.

When a poplar tree is cut down, the roots still have many adventitious buds. These buds will grow and shoots of poplar will appear here and there. To prevent this, make cuts with an ax inside the stump and fill them with ammonium sulfate crystals. The crystals will liquify and penetrate into the new gardeners: "Read and follow directions on spray bottles, use no more, no less. Keep them out of reach of children or in a locked cabinet. When containers are empty, dispose of them in the garbage can."

Leaves and small twigs are valuable; compost them and after being composted, return them to the soil to enrich it. Burn only heavy limbs and branches if you must.

WORD OF WARNING

Rhubarb leaves, but not the leaf-stalks, contain oxalic acid and oxalates of calcium and potassium, and these are poisonous compounds. In the market you buy only the stalks in a bunch, so if you are growing rhubarb, do not be tempted to cook the whole leaves as a green vegetable.

The time is coming to think about dormant spray. When all the leaves have fallen from deciduous trees, spray them with a dormant spray containing insecticide and fungicide. The combination of Volck and calcium sulphide makes good spray and is not as harmful as others. If there is a swimming pool, fish pond, or bird bath near trees to be sprayed, cover them with plastic so the water will not be contaminated.

GOOD CLICHE

A cliché becomes stale by being repeated over and over again. But here is one which is very good, especially for roots, killing them and their adventitious buds. (Adventitious" buds are those which arise in unusual places, such as on roots; normally buds appear in the axils of the leaves.)

"CHRISTMAS SONGS" is the theme carried out by Barbara Wade who designed the decorations for the Chapel Guild bazaar. Here she dispenses refreshments in the "Frosty the Snowman" snack bar to Erik, Steven and Jan Doelman.

CV Chapel decks Fellowship Hall for Christmas bazaar

Miss Barbara Wade, professional industrialist designer, has chosen the theme, "Christmas Songs" and the hall will be decorated with the heraldic banners she designed and executed in three dimension for the booths.

Chairmen and their booths include Mrs. Thomas McKier-non; boutique and needlework, under the banners of "The Twelve Days of Christmas" and "Winter Wonderland."

Mrs. Larry Busick with toys and togs is flying "The Little Drummer Boy."

Mrs. Elbert Wade will sell Christmas decorations in a booth entitled "Deck the Halls," and "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer" will mark the children's '5 and 10' booth planned by Mrs. Vera Stokes.

Mrs. Hans Doelman with plants and paper flowers has an appropriate "The Holly and the Ivy," Mrs. Howard Vail, white elephants and gems is using "Jingle Bells," and "The Sugar Plum Fairy" describes Mrs. Clifford Bolgards gourmet food. Mrs. Nellie Mirani is in charge of the snack shop

CV firemen magic: Santa to be quintuplets

Santa Claus will be quintuplets Christmas eve in the Carmel Valley Fire District.

The CV Volunteer Fire Dept. has just received word from the North Pole that not just one, but five Santas will be available to deliver presents right to the door steps of young folks the night before Christmas.

What's more, these St. Nicks will be riding big red fire engines, unless it snows several feet deep and they have to use their sleds.

Parents of young Christmas-gift hopefuls are asked to deposit certain presents at the CV Fire Station, with names and addresses attached conspicuously.

With radio contact between fire trucks and the fire station, fire protection will also be covered while the five Santas are busy on their routes Christmas eve, Fire Chief Chip Collins promised.

Architect's view of CV Plaza

PROPOSED CARMEL VALLEY PLAZA Shopping Center, to be built at the corner of Carmel Valley Rd. and Ford Rd., is viewed here in a rendering by the architect, Olof Dahlstrand of Carmel. The plan was approved under planned commercial zoning by the county planning commission recently, after the Upper Valley advisory board had voted opposition. Five different buildings totaling 36,600 sq. feet, plus a service station with an area of 20,700 square feet, are scheduled on the seven-acre site. Frank Reiser of Del Monte Properties, leasing agent, pointed out that the site would be lowered by grading to improve visibility at the corner and that the proposed gas station would be integrated into the center. Parking for 125 cars is to be provided. Adjacent is the master plan for the site. Owner is Robert H. Bohman, San Francisco banker.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

CV Garden Club party

The Carmel Valley Garden Association has planned their annual Christmas party for December 12 at the Los Laureles Lodge.

A no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 8:00. Mrs. William Wood, chairman announces that the affair is open to members and their guests.

Members of her committee include Mrs. Paul Anthony and Mrs. Fred Scott in charge of decorations; Sam Klemek and Salih Mehdy, in charge of the popular Christmas Bingo (everyone is asked to bring a wrapped gift to participate in the fun), and Lucille Chambers who will accept reservations until Dec. 5 at 659-2213. Door prizes will be awarded during the evening.

Audubon Society

A beginner's class in bird identification will meet at Highway 1 and Aquajito Rd. near Carmel Hill gate for a field trip to Jack's Peak area. No charge, visitors welcome. Dr. William Reese will be the leader.

Trip to Los Banos Waterfowl Refuge, Dec. 8. Meet at Tiny's restaurant on Hwy. 152, west of Los Banos, and be ready to leave for refuge at 9:45 a.m. with lunch. Capt. Hurlbert will lead.

CV Women's Club

The first in a series of book discussions sponsored by the Carmel Valley Womens club was held last Thursday at the Thunderbird Shop with Miss Mildred Armstrong serving as moderator.

With the forthcoming California Bicentennial in mind, a study was made of Junipero Serra and his life from the works of Francisco Palou, Agnes Ripplier, and the Rev. Maynard Gieger, O.F.M.

Attending were Mrs. Paul Edwards, Mrs. Tom Bottaro, Mrs. Norman Bundgard, Mrs. Gordon Harlander, Mrs. Joseph Baudouin, Mrs. Willoughby Moore, Mrs. William Wood, Mrs. Gordon Yates, Mrs. Ernest Etherton, and Miss Sarah Oppenheimer.

Pictures of San Francisco will be shown on the screen at the Dec. 5 meeting of the Padre Trails Camera Club, in Brey Hall, Carmel High School, at eight o'clock.

Miss Sherry Ballard, who has produced award winning series of slides herself, will present the slides made by members of the Photochrome Club of San Francisco. Members are invited to bring their friends for this special showing.

The regular club contest for the evening will be limited to nature subjects.

Lions

Lions who have trucks or station wagons are asked to get in touch with Lionette Ora Todd, 659-4665, before Thursday, so that she can correlate the pick-up and delivery of rummage for the Lionette's Rummage Sale to be held at the Monterey Bay Grange Elm and Imperial, Seaside, Saturday.

If you can't reach Lionette Ora, call Lionette Ruth Stowers, Beth Hitchcock, Virginia Bordonaro or Eileen Dufur. This is their big thing for the year, so shape up Lions!

Sierra Club

Executive committee meeting 7:30 p.m. at Jim Harkins', election of officers.

This year's December knapsack trip will start at Chew's Ridge and end at Big Sur.

The first day's hike of about 7 miles will take us to Pine Ridge Camp, where a group commissary is planned including New York steak, caviar, and several surprise items. Russian music provided by Alex Suhobek will enliven the evening campfire. Sunday's hike will cover 15 miles but will be mostly downhill.

A great advantage of winter knapsacking is the opportunity to visit uncrowded wilderness.

Number of participants limited to 15. For reservations call either Sid Williams, 624-5102, or Roger Greenwald, 373-2768 (days), or 372-1377 (evenings).

Tau Mu boutique

Christmas shoppers who are looking for a special gift or an attractive decorative item for their home are invited to attend Tau Mu's Boutique Unique, Saturday, Dec. 7 from 1-4 in one of the model homes of the Country Club Gate development, Congress and Forest Lodge Roads.

A stroll around the corner will bring them to the home of Mrs. Merrill Passey, Tau Mu member, where tea and cookies will be served. Tickets will be available at the door.

Tau Mu, an organization of 30 Peninsula women, began its program of assistance to youth groups at the time of its organization 35 years ago. Currently its funds are used to provide a two year scholarship to a young woman graduate of MPC to help her complete her upper division college course, and to provide funds for a substantial pledge to the building fund of the Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

CV Kiwanis

Carmel High School is unique in its lack of any vocational or home economics courses.

This was pointed out to CV Kiwanis Club Tuesday at Rippling River Resort in a talk by Tom Wood, vocational counselor for Carmel Unified School dist.

A program of expanded vocational training is needed, he said, to take care of students who do not wish to go to college for academic courses.

The High School is participating in a new program named PROP (Peninsula Regional Occupational Program) with other high schools in the area, to encourage more vocational training and play, possibly, for a regional vocational high school.

Carmel High at present has a plan, the speaker explained, which permits some students to take two or three classes and to work four hours a day, for which they also receive credit.

A remarkably high number of Carmel High graduates, 88%, are continuing on to junior college or other four-year colleges. And the local high school has had only four dropouts of 1,025 students, compared to the California average of three out of 10 and the national average of four out of 10 who do not graduate.

Inducted into the Kiwanis club was Dr. Al Holine, optometrist in the Village. He was sponsored by Dr. Dean Campbell and inducted by Joe Ricupero. Kiwanis Lt. Gov. Elect Jess Gressett of Seaside was introduced.

Annual installation banquet will be Dec. 13, with ladies invited, at Rippling River Resort.

● Fair Ladies sale-party

A Christmas sale that is a party is prepared by the Fair Ladies of Carmel for this Wednesday, December fourth, at the homes of Mrs. Gabriel Burnette and Mrs. Stuart Symington Goode. The display of original handmade gifts and Christmas decorations is in the home of Mrs. Goode on the West side of Hatton Road in Carmel, and guests are invited to tea directly across the street in Mrs. Burnette's home.

Proceeds go to the All Saints Episcopal School, the Carmel Foundation, the Community Hospital, Visiting Nurses and this year the Fair Ladies have sent twenty-five gifts to Red Cross nurses in Vietnam and have made Christmas decorations for the trays of soldiers in the Fort Ord hospital.

C.V. Youth to sell candles and Christmas trees

Candles and Christmas trees are very much in the minds of members of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center Organization these days, now that they have repainted and refurbished their headquarters on Ford Road.

The CVCYC will sell 15-hour scented candles (bayberry and pine) in pine-cone decorated brandy glasses. Purchasers will have a choice of gold, green, red or blue for $1.35 including tax. The Christmas decorations are easily removable for after holiday use, it is pointed out.

Teenagers are planning to set up a display table in the village and the candles may also be purchased from individual members, youngsters or adults, Mrs. Bobbie Glendenning is chairwoman of this project and will take phone orders for candles at 659-4091.

Charlie Gansel is in charge of setting up the Christmas tree lot. He hopes it will be at its usual spot between the C.V. Library and the Grapevine Liquor Store on Carmel Valley Road. He also hopes to have a variety of tree species this year.

Youthful Christmas tree salesmen will need a trailer or camper where they can sleep overnight while guarding their trees, and also warm up in during daytime business hours. If you have one to loan call the Community Center, 659-4681, or Mr. Gansel at 659-2033.

The Youth Group has a small trailer (affectionately dubbed "The Dynamite") equipped to serve hot food, which they would like to rent out to community groups. This is too small, however, for the sleep-in requirements of their Christmas tree project, they explain.

AL PARKER

OVERNIGHT SWEDISH RYE BREAD

Florence Johnson (Mrs. Don)

- | | |
|-----------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 1 qt. cold water | 1 T. salt |
| 1 1/3 c. powdered milk | 1 c. rolled oats (optional) |
| 1 pkg. dry yeast | 3 T. grated orange rind |
| 1/2 c. warm water | or |
| 1 c. salad or safflower oil | 3 T. crushed anise seed |
| 3/4 c. blackstrap molasses | 4 c. rye flour |
| 1 c. brown sugar | 10-12 c. white flour |

In a very large bowl stir powdered milk into cold water. Add oil, molasses (measured in same cup as oil, so it pours easily from the cup), sugar, salt, rolled oats (1 c. leftover cooked cereal may be substituted), and the grated orange rind or anise seed.

Dissolve yeast in 1/2 c. warm water, and add to mixture. Add rye flour and as much of the white flour as you can stir in. Knead and keep adding flour until dough is not sticky. Cover bowl and put in a warm place overnight. Next morning dough will be up to top of bowl, and perhaps overflowing, in which case sprinkle on flour, scoop it up and knead 3-4 times.

With a sharp knife cut dough into 8 pieces, kneading and shaping them into round loaves. Place on a greased cookie sheet (4 loaves to a sheet, not too close together) and let rise about 2 hr. If allowed to rise too long dough will be "holey." Bake in preheated 400° oven for 10 min., then reduce to 350° and bake 20 min. Brush crust with melted butter.

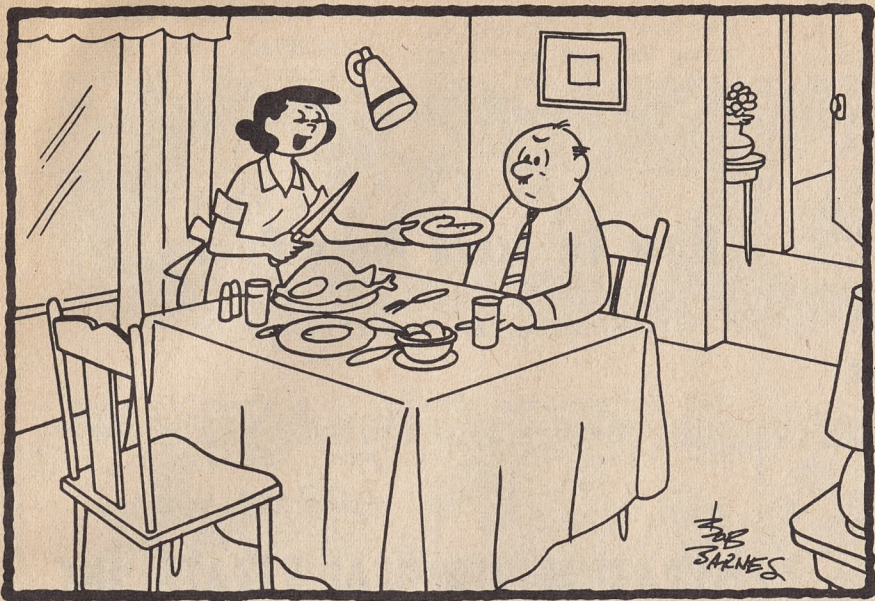

If preferred, dough may be divided into 5 or 6 parts and baked in loaf pans. Increase baking time by about 10 min.

DILLY CASSEROLE BREAD

Elvira Amyx (Mrs. Leon)

- | | |
|-----------------------------|--|
| 1 pkg. dry yeast | 2 t. dill seed |
| 1/4 c. warm water | 1 t. salt |
| 1 c. creamed cottage cheese | 1/4 t. soda |
| 2 T. sugar | 1 egg unbeaten |
| 1 T. minced onion | 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 c. all-purpose flour (unsifted) |
| 1 T. butter | |

Soften yeast in water. Warm cottage cheese to lukewarm and combine with it the sugar, onion, butter, dill seed, salt, soda, egg and softened yeast. Add flour to form a stiff dough, beating well after each addition. (For first addition of flour use mixer on low speed.) Cover. Let rise in a warm place until light and doubled in size, 50-60 min. Stir down dough. Turn into well greased 8 in. round (1 or 1 1/2 qt.) casserole. Let rise in warm place until light, 30-40 min. Bake at 350° for 40-50 min. until golden brown. Brush with soft butter and sprinkle with salt. Makes 1 round loaf.

"Dear Mrs. Renk:

Your Salesmen are Something Else!"

Well yes, I rather think they are. In the first place, they arent salesmen, they are finders. They find a home for buyers, and they find buyers for a home. And in the second place, they're ASSOCIATES, and this means they not only "look" for you on their own, but they consult with one another constantly to be sure they haven't missed a possibility in a home which will exactly meet your needs. And when they've done their challenging job of finding the right buyer for the right home, no "salesmanship" is needed; it only remains for the sale to be completed competently on terms acceptable to both sides. I think you will enjoy the services of salesmen who are "something else."

Supervisors take no action to cut Hidden Hills lot size

No action was taken by the county board of supervisors Tuesday on Ed Hogan's request to reduce from 2-1/2 to 1-acre zoning of his 1,200-acre Hidden Hills North subdivision.

The subdivision's master plan comes up for consideration at the planning commission level Dec. 18.

Hogan is seeking private roads, narrower than county roads, for the development. A ridge road of two lanes was asked, half the width recommended by County Road Commissioner Bruce McClain.

Speaking against relaxing the 2-1/2-acre zoning were Pres. Emil Hansen of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, which opposes a change; John Sigourney, Anders Larsen and George Brown.

Appearing in favor were Hogan, Carl L. Hooper, his engineer, and Donald G. Hubbard, his attorney.

Continuation of the 2-1/2 acre zoning would not eliminate possibility of "special treatment" by the planning commission in some parts of Hidden Hills North, commented Ed Demars, county planning director.

Lower Valley Board rejects 'Valle Carmel'

Application for Valle Carmel subdivision of about 10 acres on Meadows Dr. in the Lower Valley was continued by the county Planning Commission Tuesday until Jan. 29, at the request of the developer, Arbor Development Co. of Los Altos Hills.

The Lower Carmel Valley Advisory committee had recommended rejection because "near-flat to flat land does not justify reducing lot sizes to less than one acre, such a reduction on so much usable land makes a mockery of one-acre density."

The Lower Valley Advisory committee further pointed out that "the developer indicates in no way what he proposes to do with the open spaces (other than scenic easement), and we are concerned that these areas will become uncared for weed patches and trash dumps."

"We also object to installation of curbs and gutters. The natural percolation capability of the soil does not cause an accumulation problem, and gutters would only tend to make a problem instead of alleviating one."

"A curb treatment similar to Valley Green Dr. is a better handling of natural run-off. In addition we question the need for street lights; this would be rather unusual for Valley subdivisions."

"In general none of the conditions which normally justify cluster development credits or density credits exist in this situation, and therefore there is no justification for zoning other than K-G-B-4."

"However, we heartily are in favor of the single entrance from Carmel Valley Rd. and the proposed scenic easement parallel to the road and the underground utilities."

The letter was signed by William L. Cranston, secretary, Lower Valley Advisory committee.

Upper Valley Board to weigh setback request

Carmel Valley Upper Valley Advisory board at a meeting Friday at 8:30 a.m. at the Community Center will consider a request for a front-yard setback.

The request is by Derek Fairman, on Laurel Dr. at Deer Meadow Pl., for a set-back to facilitate construction of a swimming-pool cabana-service building.
